

Most popular 11v11 formations

The GK442 formation includes two solid banks of four defenders and midfielders with two forwards in attack

The GK442 Diamond formation has a normal four man defence. The midfield includes one defensive, one attacking and two box to box players

The GK433 (no.6) formation has a three man midfield with two attacking players and one holding midfielder who acts as a playmaker

The GK433 (no.10) formation has a three man midfield with two box to box players and one attacking playmaker

The GK 4411 formation has a four man midfield. A "free" striker then plays behind the teams forward. This is also a GK451 formation

The GK4321 formation is also known as the xmas tree formation. Three midfielders play behind two "free" strikers and one centre forward

The GK343 formation is a very attacking formation that offers lots of wide movement due to the two outside midfielders & wide forwards

The GK352 formation has four midfielder across the pitch. The fifth midfielder is a "free" player who plays in front or behind the midfielders